

CLUA General Meeting Minutes — March 22, 2012

Nineteen people attended the meeting (including two County Commissioners, one Planning Commission member, and one candidate for County Council), which was devoted to an explanation of the Chesapeake Bay Watershed Implementation Plan. A PowerPoint presentation was given by CLUA Board member Rupert Rossetti, followed by a panel discussion involving Erin McVey of the Sassafras River Association and Nancy Nunn and Sarah Taylor-Rogers of the Hughes Center for Agro-Ecology.

The flyer for the meeting is shown below.

George Kaplan

The Watershed Implementation Plan: Can It Save the Bay?

A presentation and discussion of the latest initiative to restore the Chesapeake Bay to a healthy and stable condition

Thursday, March 22, 7 p.m.

Elkton library (301 Newark Avenue, Elkton) — Free

Presented by Nancy Nunn (University of Maryland Center for Agro-Ecology) and Rupert Rossetti (local water quality advocate)

Why is the Chesapeake Bay's water quality still so poor?

How is the Bay's marine life affected?

What can we do about it?

What has been accomplished in the last several decades?

What is the Watershed Implementation Plan?

What is Cecil County's part of the Plan?

Organized by the Cecil Land Use Alliance
<http://cecillanduse.org>

Further information: 410-658-0484